SPEAKER: Susan Levine, Women Reshaping Lives

Susan’s first career was singer, music teacher and cantor for the Farmington Valley Jewish Congregation. She is also a wife, mother and grandmother. When she retired from her first career, she took a job she was poorly suited for even in the face of warning signs. She hated it. After 6 months she quit. This was big—she had never quit anything before; she had always stuck it out.

In 2012, she opened Women Reshaping Lives. She knew she wanted to help women, and she recognized that we are all going through change all the time. We need to understand what is underneath our reaction to change.

Transition is moving from one state to another. Stuff happens all the time and it affects us—for example, traffic jams. Who we are, our values and skills come into play. You learn from change. It can be scary, exciting, both. Barriers to change include:

- Feeling you don’t deserve better
- You don’t see alternatives
- You don’t know what you want
- You find good reasons not to change
- Fear
- Lack of cooperation or sabotage by friends or family
- Being a perfectionist

We are never finished developing at any age. It is up to you how your story is written. When you get stuck in “why me?” you find it difficult to deal with change.
